LATE REGISTRATION FOR CLEM LAW CONFERENCE FRIDAY

MISSOULA--

Late registration for participants in the two-day University of Montana sponsored CLEM (Continuing Legal Education--Montana) conference will begin at 1 p.m. Friday (April 21) in the Montana Rooms of the University Center.

The subject of the conference is the Montana Administrative Procedure Act, which will become effective Dec. 31, 1972. The act sets a procedural framework within which state administrative agencies that have rule-making and adjudication functions must operate.

Friday's speakers will be Robert E. Sullivan, dean of the UM School of Law; John P. McCrory, UM professor of law; Lawrence D. Huss, deputy to the state attorney general, and Ted J. Doney, ^{legal counsel for} Montana executive reorganization.

Saturday's sessions will begin at 9:30 a.m. with an address by Donald W. Brodie, associate professor of law at the University of Oregon. Panelists will include Moody H. Brickett, legal counsel for the Montana Employment Security Commission; K.D. Bovee, assistant administrator, Workmen's Compensation Division of the Montana Department of Labor and Industry; Huss and McCrory.

A luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Saturday in the UC Five Valleys Room will honor the Montana judiciary. Justice Paul C. Reardon of the Massachusetts Supreme Court will be the guest

Also included in the weekend's activities will be a smoker, 8 p.m. Friday, in the Moose Lodge; golf tournament, 2 p.m. Saturday, UM golf course; law students' awards banquet, 6:30 p.m., Florence Hotel, and Barrister's Ball, 9 p.m., Missoula Country Club. Class reunions commemorating the 5th through 50th year of graduation will also be held.
